The Florida Public Archaeology Network invites you to our

SUBMERGED
HERITAGE MONITORING SCOUTS (SHMS)
WORKSHOP

A citizen science archaeology monitoring training program for recreational SCUBA divers!

1–2 June 2019

Are you a diver who wants to learn new skills underwater? Are you interested in local history and archaeology?

Join us for our next Submerged Heritage Monitoring Scouts (SHMS) training program! This workshop includes one evening of classroom learning and one day of diver training on a historic shipwreck. Classroom training will take place on June 1 from 5:00pm-8:00pm at the Peck Center Auditorium (516 S. 10th St., Fernandina Beach, FL 32042). Dive training/archaeological site monitoring location on June 2 is TBA.

Once training is complete, SHMS divers are able to independently perform tasks associated with monitoring and protecting submerged historic sites in Florida!

To attend, please RSVP with Nicole Grinnan at ngrinnan@uwf.edu.

This workshop is free and open to the public, but we are suggesting a $5 donation to the “Much Bigger World, Inc.” charity.

For more about HMS Florida, visit: FPAN.us/HMSflorida