

The Past Contained: Florida's Prehistoric Pottery

Pottery was an important part of Native American culture and has also become a valuable artifact for archaeologists today. Learn all about the Native American process for making pottery through a hands-on demonstration, how and why they used it, and what information archaeologists can get from studying these small pieces of the past. This is a family friendly event.

Saturday
January 13th, 2017
4pm to 6pm

Historic Spanish Point
337 N. Tamiami Tr.
Osprey, FL 34229

FLORIDA PUBLIC
ARCHAEOLOGY
NETWORK

A PROGRAM OF THE UNIVERSITY of WEST FLORIDA

HISTORIC SPANISH
POINT 